Welcome to the Adobe in Education Web site, an integral part of Adobe's commitment to the Education community.

Educators face so many challenges today, not least the need to create engaging curriculum with the best technology available. Since Adobe was founded in 1982, we have considered education one of our highest priorities. We have worked to provide software solutions that meet the unique needs of educators at all grade levels. Adobe's integrated sets of tools allow educators to help their students develop career-building skills in print, web, and dynamic media.

The Adobe in Education Web site provides easy access to product information and significant discounts for our education customers-as well as access to a growing collection of curriculum resources. We invite you to use the Adobe in Education Web site to help you take full advantage of Adobe's award-winning products. We hope you make the site your first stop in preparing your students for their academic and vocational careers.

Whether you're looking for lessons on Adobe® Photoshop® functions, training guides on LiveMotion™ software, or a complete software solution for a school-wide project, you've come to the right site. We know that it's a challenge to teach your students on industry-standard design and production tools. With these online resources, we hope your job just got easier.

To fully demonstrate our commitment to education, we've created numerous education discount and purchase programs. You'll be pleasantly surprised at how affordable it can be to provide the newest software in the classroom and lab. And, most important your students will be prepped for life.

The people behind the Adobe in Education Web site cannot do it all! If you have any suggestions to help make this site-your site-a more helpful resource for you and your students, we invite your feedback. Please e-mail your suggestions to educomments@adobe.com. And please be sure to register to participate more fully in the Adobe in Education community-you'll receive a monthly eNewsletter keeping you informed of technology news and the latest Adobe discounts for educators.

Best wishes in all your academic endeavors.

Sincerely,
